

WIRTSCHAFTS- UND SOZIALWISSENSCHAFTLICHE FAKULTÄT
DER UNIVERSITÄT ZU KÖLN

The Faculty of Management, Economics, and Social Sciences at the University of Cologne, Germany, is pleased to announce the following vacancy:

CFR Junior Professorship (W1) in Investments

The professorship is endowed by the Centre of Financial Research (CFR) and located in the Department of Finance (Prof. Dr. Alexander Kempf) at the University of Cologne. We are looking for candidates with an outstanding research potential who are able to enforce our visibility in high-level international journals. The candidates are expected to qualify for the position of a full professor, by means of independent work in research and teaching in investments, asset management, and related areas.

The successful candidate has proved his qualification by an excellent doctoral thesis. Publications in academic journals and teaching experience are desirable. He/she should have very good skills in empirical methods common in the field of finance. The candidate may join the international research network of the CFR and cooperate with members of the research teams of the CFR and the department of finance. He/she can draw on our excellent research facilities.

Junior Professors are employed for three years. An extension for another three years is possible and desired – based on performance evaluations. Applications from people with disabilities are welcome. Handicapped candidates who are equally well qualified for the position will be given priority. Female applicants are encouraged to apply and will be given priority for equal qualification.

For further information, please contact Prof. Dr. Alexander Kempf, by phone (+49-221-470-2714) or by email (kempf@wiso.uni-koeln.de). Please send your application including a copy of your doctoral thesis and relevant research papers – an electronic version (pdf) is possible – before October 1st 2008 to the following address:
